Kidnaped Child's Grandfather Is Missing In Mexico

PATRIARCH OF CATTLE RANGE IS IN MEXICO

Arizona Family is Further Alarmed by His Absence

Nogales, Ariz., April 30—(AP)—Bernabe Robles, 73-year-old patriarch of the cattle range, who entered Mexico 51 days on a secret mission in connection with the kidnaping of his 6-year-old granddaughter, June Robles, is still somewhere in Mexico.

Accompanied by Henry Dalton, Tucson city Alderman, and Al Aguirre, chauffeur, Robles hurriedly cleared through this border port and hinted that his destination was Santa Ana, Sonora, 75 miles to the south.

Possible Contact

Border officials kept an all night vigil awaiting the return of the aged cattle baron. The unexplained secret mission gave rise to the conjecture Robles had contacted the kidnapers who ask $150,000 ransom.

Santa Ana is the highway junction for the Altar road. In some quarters it is believed that Robles went from Santa Ana into the Altar district of Sonora.

A tense situation prevails here with scores of officers patrolling the border awaiting the return of Robles.

The already nerve-wracked Robles family had not expected the cattlemen to be away for any length of time, and were unable to explain their prolonged absence.

U. S. Agents Assist
United States Department of Justice agents already have taken a hand in attempts to effect the return of the brown-eyed girl who was kidnaped last Wednesday.

They were understood to have expressed approval of the mission of the elder Robles, at whose wealth the $150,000 ransom demanded was directed. Reliable reports said that his mission was for the purpose of contacting the girl's abductors, perhaps personally.

Announcing the Federal government's cooperation in the case, Joseph E. Dunn, special agent of the Department of Justice Division of Investigation, said a friendly basis existed between his seven special agents here and police and Sheriff's officials.

Reports that the kidnapers had demanded withdrawal of all investigators to guarantee safety to the child were denied officially.

Master Swindler Sought Today as Involved in Kidnaping of Edward Bremer; Five Men are in Custody

Federal Agents Press for More Arrests: Fear 'Silence'

Chicago, April 30—(AP)—John J. "Boss" McLaughlin has confessed handling $53,000 of the ransom collected from Edward Bremer St. Paul banker, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed today.

McLaughlin was held in $100,000 bond Saturday for removal to St. Paul for trial under the "Lindbergh" kidnaping act.

His arrest followed the recovery of $2,665 in $5 and $10 bills identified as part of the ransom money. The "hot" currency was found on William E. Vidler, a gambler, last Thursday.

Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the Bureau of Investigation, announced that McLaughlin had made a full confession of his part in the disposition of portions of the $200,000 ransom paid for Bremer's freedom after 23 days a captive of kidnapers.

Four men are in federal custody—McLaughlin and Vidler already arraigned and two others awaiting the issuance of warrants charging them also with conspiracy.

Some on H. L. Son
Purvis said the government had recovered $3,400 of the ransom. They found $85 of it Saturday on young Jack McLaughlin, 17-year-old son of the erstwhile west side political boss, Purvis said. Still more was found in possession of Phillip Delaney, whose arrest in McLaughlin's home at the same time the "boss" was seized became known only today.

Delaney, the fourth accused of conspiring in the disposition of the ransom, is alleged to have handled $24,000 of the money that passed through McLaughlin's hands.

Seek Ex-Convict
The government is hunting two Oklahoma ex-convicts, Arthur Barker and Alvin Karpis, as the actual abductors of the St. Paul banker.

A master swindler was sought by federal agents today in a fresh angle of the search for the kidnapers.

The hunted "master mind" was reported to have duped a friend of Bremer out of $50,000. The victim was reported to have been Martin Wunderlich, St. Paul contractor; and the man sought, William Elmer Mead, ex-convict, Wunderlich, at his home in Jefferson City, Mo., said he had told federal officers his story but would not make public the details.

Government's Theory
The government theory is that the swindlers met their victim about a year ago in a South Bend, Ind., hotel. The leader of the confidence men told him of an acquaintance who had won large sums on horse races by wire tapping.

The swindlers and the victim allegedly "won" approximately $900,000 before the supposed bookmaker asked for evidence that they could have paid, if they had lost. The victim is supposed to have called upon Bremer in St. Paul, obtaining $50,000 which he carried back to South Bend. That was the end of the money as far as he was concerned.

Agents said that then the swindlers passed along word that Bremer had money and the kidnapers seized him Jan. 17. He was released after payment of $200,000.

COOKING SCHOOL FOR WOMEN OF THE COMMUNITY

Telegraph - Kelvinator's School to be Conducted Three Days

Solution of the mystery of "It's Coming" found advertised in The Dixon Evening Telegraph a few days ago, is revealed with the announcement that The Evening Telegraph - Kelvinator Cooking School is to be held here shortly.

Sponsored by The Evening Telegraph and the Kelvinator Corporation, pioneer manufacturers of electric refrigeration equipment for W. H. Ware of Dixon, a free cooking school for all women in this territory will be held at the Moose Hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 9, 10 and 11. The sessions will begin promptly at 2 o'clock each afternoon and will last for two hours.

Miss Mary Egger, staff home economist of the Kelvin Kitchen in Detroit, will be here to demonstrate and to answer all questions in the culinary art. She will not only give instructions in cooking with cold but other kinds of cooking and baking as well, and will prepare an entire meal on the stage each of the three afternoons.

To Answer Questions
During the course of the school Miss Egger will be ready at all times to discuss with the women in attendance their refrigeration problems and to answer all questions pertaining to kitchen management and meal planning.

There will be a slogan contest, and a recipe contest in conjunction with the cooking school, details of which are given in an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this newspaper today. Three local judges will select the winning slogan and the winner will be announced at the close of the Friday school. The woman who writes the winning slogan will be awarded a 1934 Kelvinator.

Prizes for Recipes
Similarly three judges will determine the winning recipes which will be announced at the cooking school. The winning recipes will be published in The Evening Telegraph and ten prizes will be given for those determined to be the best. Any type of recipe is eligible.

The school is expected to attract record-breaking crowds as it has in other cities during the past several months. Women will find each session entertaining as well as instructive, giving them new ideas about meal planning, how to prepare foods in advance; how to stretch food by buying in advance; how to use leftovers and how to prepare every day meals as well as party fares.

Fugitives From Illinois And Ohio Prisons Elude Scores Searching Men

Three Prisoners Escaped From Columbus Cell Sunday

Columbus, April 30—(AP)—Three convicts with a smuggled pistol who slid over the wall of Ohio penitentiary after disarming a guard were free today as Warden P. E. Thomas promised "an investigation indefinitely until we can find out, if possible, where the gun came from."

The three prisoners—Martin Schmidt, a bank robber, Arthur R. Koonitz, an auto thief, and Rufus Deeds, a robber—were hunted again today in southeast Missouri.

A few steps ahead of hundreds of possummen, Rando Eugene Norvell, life-term kidnaper, eluded his pursuers last night and boarded a train into Missouri.

With Norvell, arch-conspirator in the kidnaping last July of August Luer, 77, Alton banker and meat packer, was James O'Connell, convicted Effingham burglar. They escaped last Friday night.

Several persons saw the fugitives, still wearing their prison uniforms, board a south-bound Missouri Pacific freight train six miles north of Gorham.

After crawling 400 yards through the prison sewer, Norvell and O'Connell crossed the Mississippi in a rowboat, but early yesterday they stole a motorboat and doubled back into Illinois.

A fisherman saw them moor their craft and posess swung into close pursuit, only to lose the felons on the train. Reports to Warden J. E. Ragen indicated that the hunted men were not armed.

Disarmed Guard
Flourishing the pistol, the men cowed 14 fellow convicts and two civilian officials, climbed a ladder to the top of the wall on the pretext of repairing a searchlight, disarmed the tower guard and slid to the ground on a cable which they had brought along. They took a shotgun from the guard and cut the telephone wires leading to the prison office.

Three more notorious jail breakers in the prison, Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley and Russell Clark, apparently knew nothing of the plot. Former members of Dillinger's bank raiding gang, Pierpont and Makley are awaiting electrocution for the murder of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber in a raid at Lima, O. to free Dillinger. Clark, because of a similar plot, is awaiting execution.

Prizes for Recipes
Similarly three judges will determine the winning recipes which will be announced at the cooking school. The winning recipes will be published in The Evening Telegraph and ten prizes will be given for those determined to be the best. Any type of recipe is eligible.

TWO STATE LAWS
MAY BLOCK NRA
BILL PASSAGEState Senator Monroe
Calls Attention to State's Statutes

Chicago, April 30—(AP)—State Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsville asserted that two state laws will block plans of the National Recovery Administration to control agriculture and industry in Illinois.
An anti-dumping law passed in 1919, he said, would make illegal the Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's plan to boost prices by killing sows and pigs, limiting wheat acreage, and plowing under corn.
He declared that the state's 40-year-old anti-trust law would nullify Gov. Henry Horner's bill to set up NRA enforcement machinery in Illinois.

Bars Food Destruction
The anti-dumping law was passed when potato brokers in Chicago were charged with dumping several carloads of good potatoes along railroad tracks in the outskirts of Chicago to keep prices up. The statute provided heavy penalties for the destruction of food fit for consumption, with intent to control prices by the creation of scarcity.
The anti-trust act strictly prohibits manufacturers and business interests from fixing prices by the so-called "gentlemen's" agreement or any other understanding.
Monroe said he planned to work for repeal of both laws, and introduce a third bill making it unlawful for any person, employer, or employee, to work more than 30 hours a week.

Revivified Canine
Has Caught a Cold:
Acts More Normally

Berkeley, Calif., April 30—(AP)—Dr. Robert E. Cornish's death-defying dog, now 17 days old in its second life, has contracted a head cold.

The animal, named "Thirteen" by Dr. Cornish because it was put to a clinical death and revived April 13, continues to show increasing animation.

Dr. Cornish said the cold may complicate the dog's condition. "Thirteen" sleeps curled up, more than ever like a normal dog, Dr. Cornish reported, and seems to be less hazy in responding to sights and sounds when awake. The young scientist doubts if the dog will recover entirely.

A PRAYER
ET naught of arrogance escape my pen—
But grant that every now and then—
Some word of mine go forth though I be unaware—
And lighten for another his yoke and load of care!

Some timely thought take wing, and come to rest,
Within the confines of a troubled mortal breast—
And there implant new faith that he may carry on,
When hope is spent, and joyous dreams long gone!

Perchance some lesson life has taught me,
To curb a stubborn pride through sweet humility.
A lesson slowly learned, after these many years,
Have taken toll in anguished hours and burning tears—
And then a calm and peace restored—of this I'd gladly share
With him whose cross is heavier than that I bear.

Let naught of condemnation ever flow
From pen of mine — to cause another hurt of woe,
Nothing offensive, harsh, or yet unkind,
But thought I shall not be ashamed to leave behind!

No wealth or fame the boon which I would gain
But only that some word of mine may lessen bitter pain!

That I may speak of lowly things—
O lend to me of beauteous thought for this, dear God, I pray,
The things of every day!

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Bowyer of Chicago are guests at Hazelwood for the week.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL
By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

May Day
With all its rich traditions, May Day was the ideal choice for Child Health Day. Somehow we naturally connect the First of May with children. More than that, in our imagination we picture them as happy children—romping, rolling, laughing—enjoying and thriving in spring sunshine and fresh air.

To write of health and May Day together seems most appropriate. If you are a parent, I say take a little time to be both thoughtful and reverent. Think of what you can do to further the cause of child health, and be reverent before the blessedness of childhood. If you belong to some organization, talk up May Day. Get the membership into planning something for the children. Call on the school officials to inquire how you can help them.

Does the school have adequate luncheon equipment? Perhaps you can earn some money with which to provide it. What does the school nurse need? The possibilities are without end. The principal thing is to do something worthy on this day set apart for our children. Congress has adopted a Resolution: the President of the United States will issue a Proclamation pronouncing May 1 Child Health Day. Let us each do at least one thing for a child.

Important ideas on child health will be set forth in Dr. Ireland's book.

Troubadette Concert Is Tonight
This evening at the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock the Troubadette Chorus under the direction of Mrs. E. M. Goodsell will present a delightful concert in three acts. The concert is given under the auspices of the March committee of the Presbyterian Auxiliary and they have entire charge of the decorations at the church which are especially attractive and appropriate, the wedding scene being featured in wedding bells, tapers, palms, etc. The members of the March committee are Mrs. E. M. Goodsell, Mrs. Conrad Dyke, Mrs. C. B. Lindell, Mrs. L. G. Adams, Mrs. A. H. Moll, Mrs. H. A. Lazier, Mrs. Frances Miller. The music for the entire affair will be well worth the effort to attend, and the unique features in the introduction of Melba, Homer, Marchese, etc., impersonated by Dixon talent, is sure to attract many. You will not be disappointed in attending the concert this evening at the Presbyterian church.

Helpful Hints For Housewives
ELIMINATE "MOTH DANGER" IN SPRING HOUSECLEANING
Spring cleaning calls for dusting, cleaning closets and bureau drawers and beating rugs, but it is even more important to make sure that moths do not get into your household.

Moths lay their eggs in the spring and are not difficult to keep out if proper care is taken then. But if allowed to thrive they cause infinite trouble.

If clothes, blankets and similar articles are wrapped carefully in newspapers without gaps or loop holes, moths will be kept out. Camphor flakes, balls or gum camphor may be inserted for good measure by the very careful housewife.

Camphor substances may also be put behind and under cushions in furniture as an extra precaution.

WINTER-DIRTY CURTAINS BRIGHTENED BY TURNING
The appearance of a pair of curtains which have become discolored during the winter heating of a house may be improved by turning the curtains upside down. Just a little hemming and pressing and new life appears in them.

And if, during the spring cleaning, it is difficult to keep the children out of your way and yet amused at the same time, let them have little dustcloths and brooms and give them a corner in which to work. They may be of great help.

MAKING MELBA TOAST
Remove crusts from thin slices of white bread, spread bread on shallow pan and bake in moderate oven until toast is delicate brown color and very crisp. Serve with soups, salads or with the main course of meal.

WISE WASHING WAYS
A little lime water will remove stains made by iodine.

Do not hang up white silk shirts or blouses when you fear they may turn slightly yellow. Roll them in a white cloth after washing and iron while still damp but not thoroughly wet.

If you fear a color may "run" do not put such material with other garments. Wash separately and put a little salt in cool water first, adding warm water gradually before washing.

To make curled celery, cut celery from either end and then place in cold, salted water.

Mrs. Zigler Entertains the Woosung Club at Her Home
The Woosung Women's club held a most enjoyable all day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Louis Zigler near Penrose. A number of the members finished their quilt blocks, also plans for a program to be given at the Woosung school at a near date were decided upon.

Spring Luncheon At M. E. Church Attended By Many
More than 120 ladies of the congregation and their friends enjoyed the delightful "spring luncheon" given at the M. E. church Thursday at 1 o'clock. The affair was sponsored by the General Aid Society and had been planned by the social chairman, Mrs. William Hintz.

As the guests descended the stairway, the dining room presented a pretty sight. From the ceiling were suspended huge rainbow-colored May baskets filled with spring time flowers. The color scheme was further carried out in the centerpieces, napkins and varicolored glassware used on the tables.

Each table was presided over by two hostesses, one pouring from a silver coffee service and the second one serving the courses. Mrs. H. W. Leydig and her committee from Circles No. 2 and No. 3 had planned the dining room arrangements.

Mrs. Shawyer and Mrs. Sheffield with committees from Circles No. 1 and No. 4 had planned and prepared the following menu: Chicken pie, whipped potatoes, gravy, Creamed beans, Combination salad, Baking powder biscuits, Apricot preserves, Angel food cake, Pineapple cream, Coffee.

Following the luncheon a fine program was enjoyed. A quartet—Mesdames E. V. Mellott, Crawford Thomas, William Lang and Myrtle George—sang very sweetly "In the Time of Roses." Their encore number was "Good bye, Sweet Day." They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Quick.

Mrs. J. Franklin Young then gave an intensely interesting travel talk on "Come With Me to Persia." She gave a very comprehensive account of that far away country, its people, customs, government, etc. Especially interesting was the demonstration of the native women's wearing apparel.

At the conclusion of the program the vice president, Mrs. Charles Willford, conducted the regular monthly business meeting of the four Circles of the Aid Society.

TWO OPPOSING WAYS TO RECOVERY.

A good idea of the contrasting courses open to a government which seeks to promote national recovery can be had by comparing the policies of the American NRA with those recently put into effect by Mussolini in Italy.

In each case the general objective is the same—to get back some sort of decent equilibrium between what the citizen gets and what he spends, between income and expenditure, between the price level and the debt level.

There are two ways of doing this.

Everybody is familiar with the way the NRA is trying. It is using a kind of controlled inflation—or reflation, perhaps, if you like that word better.

It is trying to boost wages and prices, hoping that it will be able to send the former up faster than the latter.

Mussolini is attacking the problem in the opposite way. His program, the latest details of which have just been announced at Rome, is strongly deflationary. Salaries and wages are being cut; rents are being cut; commodity and retail prices are being lowered.

In instituting this program, Mussolini avowedly has his eye on world trade. With domestic prices and wages lowered, he believes Italy will be in a better position to bid for world markets.

Now it is extremely interesting to study the contrast between the American and Italian recovery programs.

The Italian program seems to be geared to the idea that the world depression is still in full force and that no very speedy rise in world price levels or trade activities is in prospect.

It represents a cutting down of national levels to meet the level produced by a world crisis.

The American program follows the opposite notion; that the world depression is coming to an end, and that its end can be hastened by a rise in prices and business activity in individual nations.

Instead of adjusting domestic affairs to meet a depression level, it seeks to adjust the depression level to jibe with local needs.

In both cases, drastic action by the central government is required. And it probably will be several years before we can get a definite idea which program is the more effective.

HISTORY MADE REAL BY REAL WORDS.

One of the things that makes ordinary history seem unreal is its habit of trying to put its characters into full dress. The school books are full of stately utterances and lofty poses; and while they sound and look very fine, most of us have trouble believing that they ever actually were said or done.

Now MacKinlay Kantor, who recently wrote "Long Remember," a fine novel about the battle of Gettysburg, rises to show that our suspicions can be pretty accurate.

In studying the battle of Gettysburg, Mr. Kantor devoted especial attention to the first day's fight, when an advance guard of Union cavalry under General Buford tangled with the Confederates and got snowed under.

Most histories, he remarks, represent Buford's superior, General Reynolds, as galloping forward and saying something like this:

"General, the fate of the Union is at stake. At all costs, you must maintain your present lines until reinforcements are brought forward."

But at last, in an old book of records, he found out what they really said. Said Reynolds, arriving amid the confused clamor, "What's the matter, John?" Said Buford, "There's hell to pay." Said Reynolds, "Think you can hold out until the First Corps comes up?" And Buford replied, "Reckon I can."

And all of this, somehow, is rather comforting. "There's hell to pay . . . reckon I can"—that's the way men really talk, in moments of stress.

It sounds human, realistic; we suddenly see Gettysburg, not as a historic pageant, but as it really was, enacted by men who weren't worried about striking attitudes for the history books, but who were trying to get on with the job at hand.

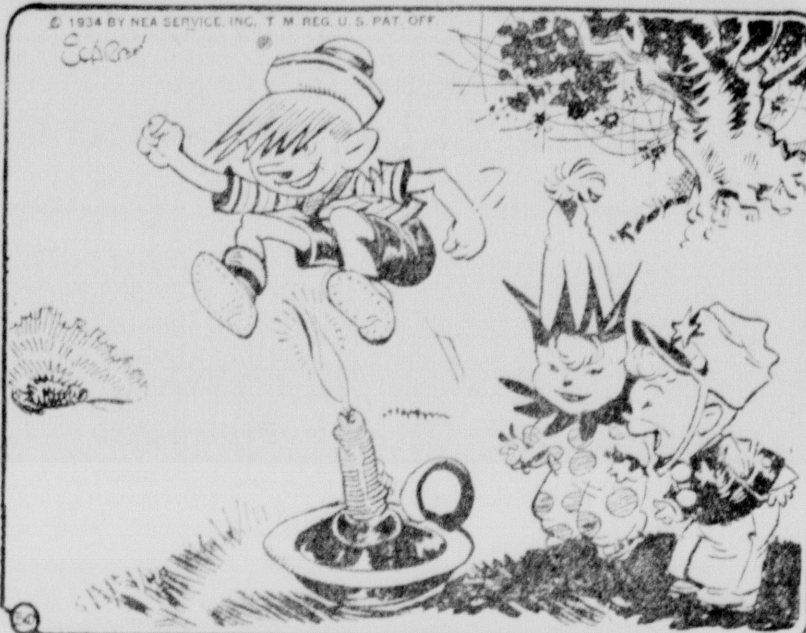

Probably we'd find the same thing true of many other historic and picturesque occasions. Did John Paul Jones coolly say, "I haven't begun to fight"—or did he damn the Britisher's eyes and invite him to climb a tree?

Did Ethan Allan say, "Open, in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress!" or did he, as a Yale professor once suggested, say something like "Open up there, you blankety-blank blank!"

Scrape away the historic trappings and you'd probably find something very like this underneath many of those great moments. The fine phrases are made later, by men who weren't there.

All the great discoveries are not made by the deep thinkers. Most of them come by accident.—Charles F. Kettering, automotive engineer.

Modern dancing should be stripped of the epicene flutterings and lackadaisical flowings that pass for art in the public mind.—Ted Shawn, famous dancer.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Poor Duncy still was scared to death. He ran until all out of breath, and then he flopped down on the ground and covered up his head.

"If that sheep plans on biting me he will not nip my ears," said he. "You'd think that it has been a real long time since he's been fed."

"Oh, don't be silly," cried Bo Peep. "I said he was a friendly sheep and you'll find out that I'm right. Get up off the ground."

Then Duncy said, "Well, I trust you, so I'll do what you tell me to." He jumped up to his feet, as all the others gathered 'round.

"Go on and pet him," wee Goldy cried. "He is coming, now, right to your side." And when wee Duncy did, the little fellow licked his hand.

"Ah, that's a good pet," said Bo Peep. "And now come on. You need some sleep. We'll run and join the others, who are feeding on the land."

The girl then bade the bunch goodbye and added, "Course you know that I appreciate your helping me. Gee, thanks for all you've done."

"Now, if you want to see some tricks, find Jack, who jumps over candlesticks. He is a funny fellow and you will have a lot of fun."

"A good idea," Scouty said. "But where can we find him?" "Straight ahead," answered Bo Peep, and then she scampered over a nearby hill.

The Times walked a half a mile and reached a sight that made them smile. It was the candle jump that he exclaimed, "I can't keep still."

"I simply have to jump around now, see that big candle on the ground? You will note that it is burning. I will leap right over the top."

"It will not burn me, Mercy, no! You'll know why when you see me go." And then he leaped into the air, and cleared it with one hop.

CIVIC STUDENTS
SWORN INTO OFFICE BY MAYORMayor Henry Thanks
Council for Wonderful Opportunity

By BRADLEY MOLL

Before an enthusiastic gathering Friday night the student-governing officials held their inaugural ceremonies. At slightly past 7:30 the entire official list filed into the council room and the proceedings began with some of the vigor that characterizes such a meeting or event in the high school.

The ceremony began with Mayor George C. Dixon addressing the group and telling them some of the advantages in learning citizenship in the school rather than waiting for the development outside of educational realm. Concluding his very timely speech the Mayor administered the oath to the student mayor Francis Henry, who said:

"To me this meeting is a big thrill, an opportunity to learn something and above all else a real incentive toward the development of interest in our local government."

"Every intelligent citizen of this community, state and country desires and works for the betterment and keener understandings of government. Statistics show that a large percentage of voters, both men and women, are ignorant of their local government. This is due to the fact that only national and state affairs are published in the leading newspapers and discussed freely over the radio. These sources of information are very uninteresting in our local government and consequently our immediate vicinity is not given the recognition it should, even by its own citizens. Teachers realize this and that is one of the reasons why we are here tonight. The old maxim "Experience is the best teacher" can truthfully be applied to civic government and actual experience arouses our interest in problems which could not be stimulated by any other method. Textbooks and lectures are students other means of learning but any one knows that one day's experience is more impressive than weeks of tedious reading.

"I want to thank the students for electing me to this honorable position and I feel sure that the class of '34 will never become indifferent to affairs of the community, state or nation. We are grateful to the city officials for giving the students the privilege of governing the city for one day. Very few cities grant high school students this favor so we can be justly glad of living in a city governed by such progressive and far sighted men."

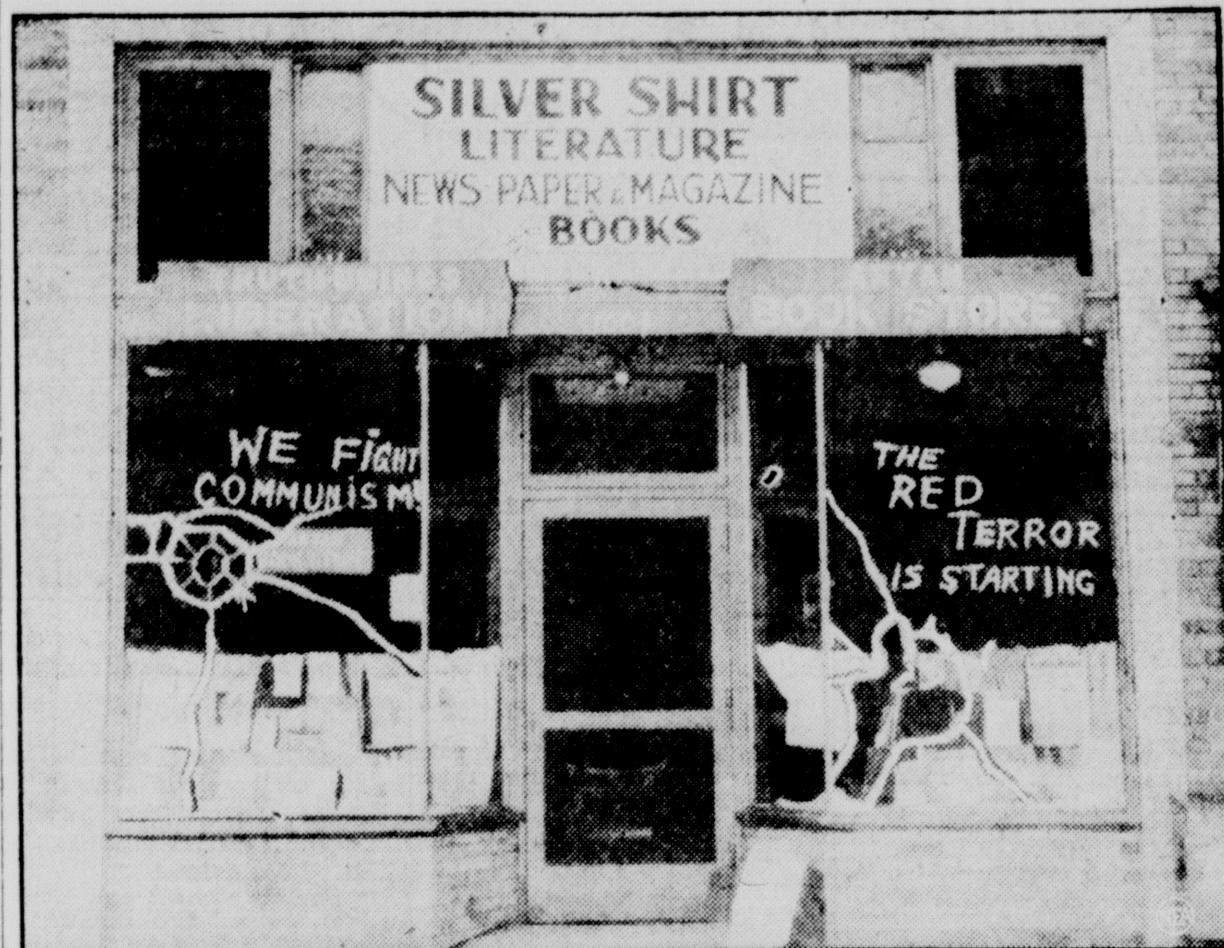

"We are having this opportunity tonight are in short, the future governing body of this country whether we are competent, interested, or successful rest upon our knowledge and training. Our ideals of governmental leadership are now in the molding, we have studied the trials of various administrations, and we have formed our opinions. May we in our work keep one thing paramount and high in our minds: "Interest and sacrifice for our country, not on the battlefield of war for capitalistic interests, but on the combat plain of citizenship where the rise or downfall of a country, state, or community is determined."

Next Mayor Henry administered the oath to the commissioners who were assigned to the following departments, Lloyd Muzzey, accounts and finance; Albert Kennedy, public health and safety; Fred Padgett, streets and alleys and James Withers, parks and public property. Confirmed by the council, City Clerk, Chief of Police, Chief of Fire Department, City Engineer, Superintendent of Streets, Health Officer, Asst. Health Officer, and City Stenographer, all confirmed by the council and sworn in by Mayor Henry.

Mayor Henry next used his authority to appoint the members of the various boards and commissions of the city, and calling off the names of the boards he administered the oath of office to them in a manner that would have done credit to any official mayor. All the board and commissions were approved and confirmed by the student city council and the proceedings of the evening were on.

The four Commissioners, Muzzey, Kennedy, Padgett, and Withers all addressed the council and the audience with clever and quite appropriate speeches, all of them stressing the educational value of the project, warning the people about law observance and other things that came under their particular department. With this load off the minds of the council a motion for adjournment was made and passed and Mayor Henry rapped the gavel adjourning the meeting until 8:00 tonight when the official

Living Our Everyday Lives

THE WRONG SIDE

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton.)

Charles Dickens was a lonely, neglected little boy, working in a blacking factory. But he was not unhappy; he made fun for himself. If he could not find it. At odd times he wandered the streets of London with wondering eyes that missed nothing, as we can believe when we read his stories about that quaint, rambling old city.

One day, in St. Martin's Lane, he went into a shop to get a bite to eat. Looking up from his seat, he saw two strange words on the glass door, which he had not noticed as he entered. Awful words they were, or seemed to be. "Moor Effroc" and his fancy went off on a chase to learn the mystery, until he half forgot to eat his lunch.

What a Moor was he knew; he had heard tell of Moors, dark, mysterious, cruel, ready to take your head off or smother you with a pillow, as one did in a Shakespeare play. But he stared at the second word fascinated and fearful, unable to make it out. At last, when he had to go, looking back from the outside, the words simply read "Coffee Room." He had been reading them backwards and from the wrong side!

But he learned a lesson, and no one has done more to help us read human beings from the right side. In his stories he gets inside of people, loving and laughing his way into their souls. He finds them funny, even fantastic, but even in the lowliest he sees something to love and pity. He brings us news of humanity in the slums.

How many mistakes we make, how cruelly we misread our fellow men, because we read their acts backwards and from the wrong side. "But you get me wrong," said a friend to me recently; and when he explained the reason for what he did, he was right. How sadly, too, we are misinterpreted in the same way, because others see the wrong side.

Life itself is easily misread from the wrong side. On the doors of the House of Life simple words like "Way Out" and "Way In" if read backwards, make "You Yaw" and "Ni Yaw," like Chinese for Choclaw.

Maybe we are afraid of the dark door called "Death" only because we are reading it from the wrong side, and when we see the other side it will be all right.

Oldest University in the World

The mosque of Al-Azhar in the city of Cairo supplies Egypt with its ministers of religion and its exponents of Moslem law, and is the oldest university in the world. Centuries before Oxford and Cambridge became the centers of learning the Sheikh of Al-Azhar were expounding the principles of law and religion for pupils who were to hand them on in all the territories where the sword of Islam was victorious. Since then it has always remained the fountainhead of orthodox Islamic doctrine and the true head of literary Arabic.

Worship Mountains at Home

There have been cults of mountain worship in China for centuries, the pilgrim clubs connected with the mountains being of two kinds, "traveling" and "stationary," the former sending out representative delegates to a peak at stated intervals, the latter, also called the "Squatting and Fattening Society," for instead of making the actual pilgrimage, they limit activities to the worship of a paper mountain at home, with convivial accompaniments on a liberal scale.

"I NEED HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. CECIL SMITH, WITH A THRIVING FAMILY TO LOOK OUT FOR"

Robert E. Butterfield, Jr., who has two thriving youngsters, says:

"A father's job gives a fellow plenty of experience with nerve strain, too! Providing for the children keeps you keyed up to concert pitch. Then—coming home from work, with Dick insisting on movies—Bob's eternal tap dancing—that's the zero hour for a father's nerves! Although I smoke all I want, jangled nerves have passed me by. That's because I smoke Camels. Camels have the fine flavor of the choicest, most expensive tobaccos. And I find they never upset my nerves."

Cecil Smith, who rose to the top of the polo world this year with a ten-goal rating, says:

"Most polo players, myself included, smoke a great deal. And most polo players, myself included again, prefer to smoke Camels. They are milder. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Nerves, nerves, nerves! You hear them discussed everywhere today. For most of us are more or less the victims of irritated, jumpy nerves.

If troubled that way, check up on your eating, your work, your recreation, your sleep. And to be on the safe side about "nerves," begin to smoke Camels.

Camels are made from finer, MORE

EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

No wonder they are milder, finer in flavor, free from irritation! Make Camels your smoke! You'll be delighted with Camels' flavor...the gentle mood of enjoyment...well-being...and poise which steady smokers find in Camels.

VALLEY YEAGUE SCHEDULE WILL BE SUBMITTED

Managers of Six Teams Will Meet Tuesday to Act on It

A meeting of managers of the six teams which will compose the Rock River Valley soft ball major league, is to be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the court house. The schedule for the season, consisting of 40 games, has been drafted at the National Softball headquarters offices in Chicago and submitted to President Ward Miller to be presented to the club managers Tuesday evening.

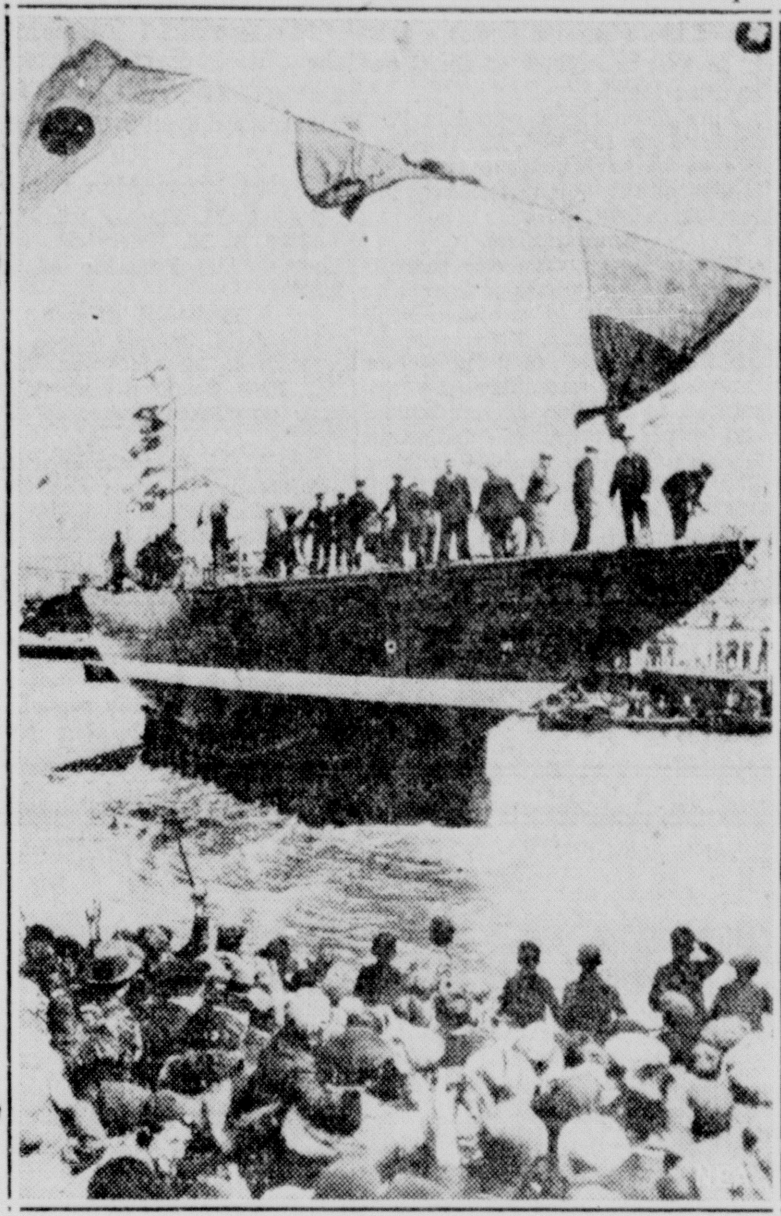

The schedule calls for the first games to be played on the evening of May 15 and Dixon is scheduled to open the season on their new field at the new Municipal airport east of the city on the Lincoln Highway, opposing Princeton. The schedule which has been drafted is subject to changes at tomorrow evening's meeting.

While it was originally planned to form an eight club league, two of the cities considered failed to apply for franchises, namely Rochelle and Mendota. The league is now composed of the following cities: Princeton, Rock Falls, Sterling, Ashton, Oregon and Dixon. All of the member cities have lighted fields on which all of the games will be played.

Local Team Picked
In Dixon the franchise was secured by George and Arthur Beier of the Beier bakery. They have assembled a team under the management of Ward Miller which will represent Dixon in the major league. The rules of the National Association provide that all teams must reduce their playing roster to not more than 15 players by June 15. The local team will be known on the field as the Beier's and the sponsors have equipped the team with fine uniforms in orange and black colors, which will be worn for the first time in the opening game. The players will wear orange and black colored sweat shirts, white knickers, caps and socks are in the color scheme and each player will wear a corduroy jacket in the colors. One of the uniforms is now on display in the Boynton-Richards show window.

Work is progressing rapidly on the lighted field at the Municipal airport east of the city. The field has been laid out and is in readiness for the opening of the season, but would be materially improved with rain. The setting of the poles which will support the batteries of special flood lights is under way today. Much of the work on the field is being done by members of the Beier team who are volunteering their services. The schedule will call for the local team playing two games weekly, one on the home field and another away from home. From present indications, all of the city league soft ball games will also be played under the flood lights at the airport field this season, as no other playing field is available. A series of exhibition games will be played by the Beier's as soon as the field is in readiness and plans are now under way to bring the Kentucky Colonels, one of the fastest travelling teams in the country to Dixon for one of these games. The Colonels' pitcher stands seven feet seven

1148 GOLF BALLS DRIVEN INTO SEA BY U. S. CUPPERS

American Walker Cup Golfers Arrived In Scotland

St. Andrews, Scotland, April 30—(AP)—The American Walker cup team drove 1148 golf balls into the ocean on their trip across the Atlantic. Today Captain Francis Ouimet and his mates prepared to start practice over St. Andrews world-famous links where the mortality rate for golf pellets, although high, wouldn't be quite so excessive.

The team of nine completed the eastward crossing last night. Tired but confidently looking forward to the international matches May 11 and 12, they arrived at this ancient golfing center shortly before midnight.

Henry Gullen, secretary of the Royal & Ancient Club of St. Andrews, ruling body of British golf, met the visitors at Londonderry and escorted them to St. Andrews. Despite the fact that the Caledonia reached Londonderry at 6 A. M. Sunday morning, several members of the team were on deck.

"We don't usually get up so early," said Harold W. Pierce, treasurer of the United States Golf Association, "but some of us wanted to see the famous Irish scenery."

Driving practice off a special mat on deck kept the team members in shape on the trip across even though the cost in golf balls did go over the 1100 mark.

The team, in addition to Ouimet, includes Johnny Goodman and George Dunlap, American open and amateur champions, respectively; Chandler Egan, Max Marston, Gus Morland, Johnny Fischer, Jack Westland and Lawson Little.

GOOD PUTTING LEARNED BY CONSTANT PRACTICE

NEA
Ask any golfer who has a reputation for good putting the secret of this game within a game and he will tell you it is practice. There is no department of play where practice will pay more dividends than here.

One thus acquires a putting touch without which no player can consistently perform well. One learns by actual performance how hard to hit the ball, something no expert can tell you. Then there is the roll of the green, which can be judged only after the player has put in many hours on the putting surface.

The beauty about putting is that it can be practiced indoors. All that is necessary is a strip of carpet, a putter, and a ball. Therefore, no golfer should have an excuse for bad putting.

Ashton Team Lost to Dixon on Sunday

Dixon scored a 7 to 3 win over Ashton in a practice baseball game on the Ashton diamond Sunday afternoon before a good sized crowd of fans from both cities. George Carlson started on the mound for Dixon and in the middle of the game gave way to "Shires" Miller, who finished the game. The Ashton team was composed largely of soft ball players who are playing a series of practice games before the opening of the season on May 15.

TWO CHAMPIONS TO RISK THEIR CROWNS IN WEEK

Freddie Miller and Vince Dundee in Title Battles

New York, Apr. 30—(AP)—Freddie Miller, National Boxing Association featherweight titleholder and Vince Dundee, middleweight king, stake their championships in 10-round bouts this week.

Miller, clever southpaw from Cincinnati, tangles with Paul Dazzo of Chicago in the headline bout of Louisville's annual Derby-eve boxing show; while Dundee, who makes his home in Newark, will meet Al Diamond of Patterson N. J., in Diamond's home town on Thursday. Both champions figure to win handily.

Otherwise the national boxing schedule for the week is marked by a ten-round match in Madison Square Garden here Friday night between Tommy Loughran and Walter Neusel of Germany, an engagement that may determine what the future holds for the blonde Teutonic heavyweight. If he wins, Neusel may be given a chance to meet the winner of the forthcoming title match between Primo Carnera and Max Baer.

Another bout of more than average interest will send Young Terry Trenton, N. J., "buzz saw" against Young Corbett of Fresno, Calif., welterweight champion in San Francisco tonight. Corbett is aiming at the middleweight crown.

TEN RECORDS FELL IN DRAKE LAYS SATUR.

One New World Mark Recorded in Shotgun at Des Moines

Des Moines, April 30—(AP)—There were 10 new records, one a world mark, on the Drake relays roll of honor today, striking evidence of superlative performances by a brilliant array of track and field athletes at the silver anniversary of the carnival.

The world record was contributed by Jack Turance, the lumbering 275-pound southern gentleman of Louisiana State University, who tossed the shot 55 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the preliminaries. He broke the old mark by two feet and the former Drake record by nearly five feet.

Three new university relay records were established along with two in the special events and five in the high school division.

Of particular interest to Towns was the fall of the 11-year-old mile relay mark of 3:16.9 by the University of Iowa in 1923, which fell before the flying feet of a great mile team of the University of California at Los Angeles. The westerners sprinted the distance in 3:15.9.

DIXONITE GOES TO MEETING OF NATIONAL C. C.

J. Frank Bennett Is Now in Washington for Important Meet

J. Frank Bennett, a director of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, has gone to Washington, D. C., as a delegate for the association at the twenty-second annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to be held in Washington, May 1st to 4th inclusive.

This annual meeting will be of unusual significance. National policies, far-reaching in their effects, will be weighed in the light of business experience. Both emergency and permanent measures to restore and maintain economic stability and vitality will be appraised. Problems encountered, adjustments to be made, procedures to be followed, will receive the earnest attention that such a meeting can assure.

These are matters of concern to every type of trade and industry in every part of the country. The success of business will depend in large measure upon the effectiveness with which it utilizes its opportunities, chief among which are charting and following a practicable course, based on the initiative business itself takes in identifying and supporting sound principles and policies.

Your Newspaper Boy is Proud to belong to the "N. B. A."

(Newspaper Boys of America, Inc.)

He's a Junior Now—working Hard for His Senior Certificate and Belt Buckle. Help him win!

It won't be long before your newspaper carrier graduates from the Junior rank of the N. B. A. and becomes a Senior member of this national brotherhood of experienced newspaper boys.

Right now, he is working hard to win his final Junior Merit Seals, for ability in delivering, collecting and selling his newspapers. That's why he is so prompt these days in bringing your paper, so courteous and efficient in making his collections, and so alert to obtain new subscribers.

You can help him win these awards, with a word of praise and encouragement, or by giving him the name of some neighbor who might subscribe to this paper. He'll appreciate your friendly interest, and be eager to repay you with extra-good newspaper service.

And, when he is promoted to "Senior Newspaper Boy," ask him to show you his official certificate of membership, and the beautiful belt buckle which will mark him as a successful newspaper boy. Then urge him to start out to win the first of the fourteen N. B. A. Honor Medals which match his belt buckle, and which are offered to all Senior newspaper boys as reward for good conduct and dependable service.

N. B. A. Standards of SERVICE

1. Keep neat and clean—and SMILE.
2. Arrive on time—all the time.
3. Be courteous to everyone you meet.
4. Have an above-average school record.
5. Own a growing bank-savings account.
6. Keep your route list and map up-to-date.
7. Give your subscribers prompt delivery.
8. Collect your accounts in full, regularly.
9. Report all new families or non-subscribers.
10. Learn the right way to sell your paper.
11. Build up your list of regular customers.
12. Be ambitious to succeed in life.

Senior Belt Buckle and Membership Card

The beautiful silver-plated on bronze Belt Buckle, shown above, is given to each N. B. A. Newspaper Boy when he has won his 4 Merit Seals and is promoted from Junior to Senior.

The N. B. A. pocket card shown below, is given to each Senior newspaper boy to identify him as an experienced carrier-salesman. He receives, also, the large certificate of membership, shown above, in boy's hand.

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA, April 24, (via Mackay Radio). We are like an army, digging in and getting everything ready for the big battle to come. The long Antarctic night has descended upon us and all day and night we are in a deep gray shadow. Sometimes, when the sky is overcast or a storm is raging, we are in inky blackness. Most of the time, however, it is a thick, heavy gray which lets us see a dozen or so feet away. Some days and nights we have moonlight and that helps a lot. This absence of daylight is so new to me that it gives me the willies but the old-timers tell me I'll get used to it. We'll make up for it next summer when we have sunlight for months, 24-hours a day. The sun is due to pay us its next visit August 22 and will give us a cheer!

Commander Hjalmar Gjertsen I don't like to see seals killed. Expedition see seals killed. Commodore but down here it is very necessary, to preserve health for us and our dogs. We have 600 seals, all frozen, some in our storehouses, the rest out on the ice several miles away—in Nature's biggest icebox. You know, we have two kinds of seals down here, the Crab-eaters and the Weddell seals, and two kinds of penguins, the little Adels and the Emperors. The Crab-Eater seals weigh about 200 pounds when fully grown and are courageous fighters, with sharp teeth, although they can't open their mouths very wide when gobbling crustaceans and small fish. They are a neutral gray and travel over the ice like serpents. They are arrogant, active, interesting and delicious to eat, although their flesh, under the coating of fat or blubber, is very black, like all the birds and animals down here, including whales, on account of the richness of their blood. They make a funny, indescribable noise, half grunt, half moo like a cow.

The Weddell seals are much bigger, weighing 25 to 35 pounds when born, growing 50 pounds a week for the first two or three weeks, then more slowly until they reach around 600 pounds. They have no teeth but find no difficulty eating crabs and other crustaceans and fish by crushing them. They travel by wiggling along, very different from the Crab Eaters. They are dark brown or black with bright gray spots, half instead of fur, and make the darnedest noise I ever heard—a cross between the trill of a canary and a faint moo. None of the seals down here bark like the northern seals. The Weddell seals can open their mouths prodigiously—150 degrees. And are they lazy! A few days before the sun and the seals (and all other creatures including the whales) disappeared, I ran at two seals on the bay ice, to scare them. You know the animals down here have no fear of humans, because they haven't been hunted with guns—only clubs. Well, the Crab-Eater snaked over the ice and popped in to the water of an open lead. The Weddell opened one eye, looked at me scornfully, and closed it again.

I've talked with the tractor crews and the dog team men who set up our southern bases for the explorations we're going to start next spring—in October. Both groups did a marvelous job and had a horrible time doing it. Captain Innes-Taylor, William Paine, Finn Ronne and Dick Black, with their dog teams, established a big food and supply base for us 180 miles south of here. You might mark that trip on your club maps, using the proper legend for the dog teams—to Latitude 81.2 South Longitude 160.50 West.

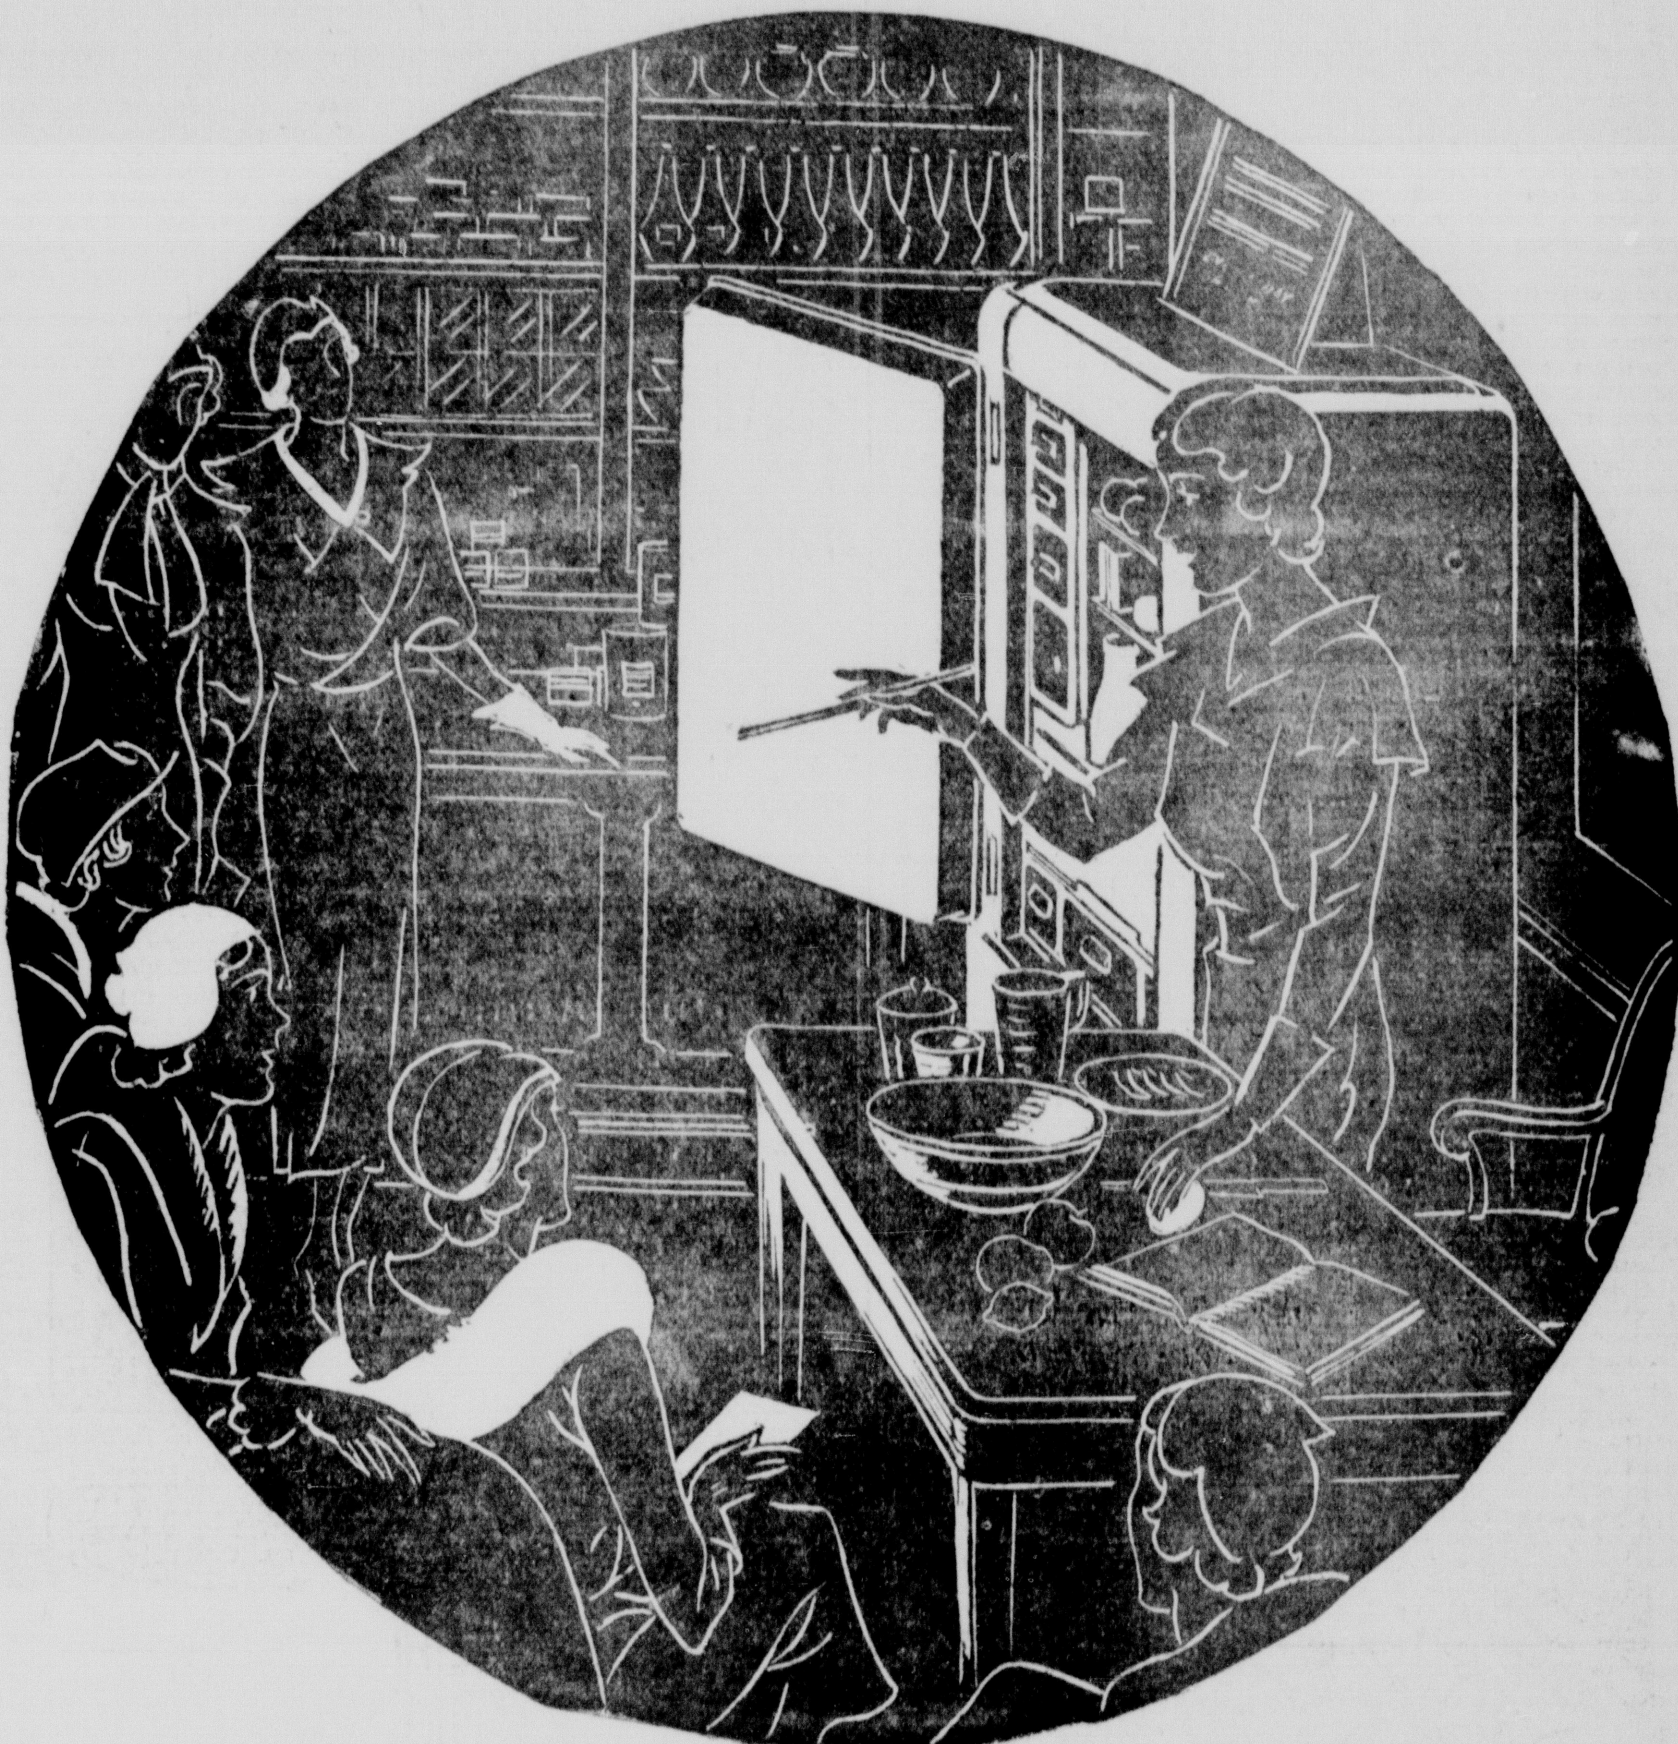

We've got a big thrill coming later this month—if we're not beset by too many storms and blizzards. The scientists have told us there will be a lot of vivid meteor showers and they have built an observatory. So now we are all waiting to observe this show to be put on by the heavenly bodies. I'll tell you all about it.

Have you and your friends joined our club yet? Why don't you get your school teachers to enroll their entire classes, as 142 other teachers have done? The club is open to everybody interested in aviation, exploration and adventure and there are no expenses whatever to members. Simply send stamped, clearly self-addressed envelope, or, in case of school teachers, the names and home addresses of self and pupils, with stamp for each, to A. C. Abelt, Jr., President, Little America Aviation & Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City and our big free working map of the South Pole region and membership card will be sent immediately.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

CIVICS PROJECT HAS POTENTIAL VALUE TO DIXON

Prof. B. J. Frazer Explains Purposes of Annual Project

We human beings are invariably suspicious of, or indifferent to those things which we do not understand. We also have another peculiarity, if we find ourselves individually or collectively in a jam, we look everywhere but at ourselves to find the cause. In other words, we spend as much time looking for alibis as we do for facts. During the last generation we have been increasingly conscious of waste, graft, and selfish narrowness in our government. We have in turn blamed politicians, lobbying business interests, and the other party; but never a thought to the fact that in a democratic government, the functions of that government can never rise higher than the level of the information, interest and sincerity of its citizens. We have ignored the fact that most important elections have brought out less than half of the citizens who enjoy the right to vote. The truth is that all the unsightly, pernicious practices, the duplicities and inequalities which have crept into the functions of our government, did not creep in, but walked boldly in while we were too busy making money, bridge scores, or golf scores to do our plain duty at the polls.

The "Civics Project" has a great potential value to the city because each year it teaches some one hundred fifty young men and women the rudiments of city government; creates an intelligent interest in that government, and gives them a chance to get a general view of the city machinery in action. Such experience leads a boy or girl to watch with a knowing interest the things which transpire in his city. Three years later when he is ready to cast his first ballot he is an informed citizen. One hundred fifty a year for ten years! Can one doubt that city government will become easier and more efficient? Will not much valuable time and effort be saved in selling worthwhile civic ideas to the voting public.

In such a project learning is motivated and becomes instantly practical. Many of the poorer classroom students become outstanding in this kind of study. Such a project is an ideal combination of theory and practice. Though this project is of inestimable value to the students, it is of greater value to the community in the increased interest, and information in connection with civic affairs. One angle of this project which many people overlook is its inclusiveness. Not only one hundred fifty boys and girls, who are students, but one hundred fifty fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles, and even grandparents become reinterested and in some cases better informed on city government. This alone is a magnificent accomplishment.

We of the high school thank the city for this opportunity and feel assured that rich dividends will accrue to the community through its present and future citizens.

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDAL who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfro's circus. CON DAVID, the animal trainer, is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline is in love with Con.

Five years before Madeline ran away from the middle-western farm where her grandfather, AMOS SIDDAL, lives. When the old man writes, asking her to spend the week-end at the farm, she persuades Donna to take her place. BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, takes Donna to the farm. Meanwhile Madeline goes to dinner with Con.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

A ROBIN, perched on the limb of an elm tree by her window, awakened Donna at sunrise. She stretched with a feeling of well-being that made every nerve throb with ecstasy. She could hear the cackle of hens and Mrs. Planter out in the yard calling, "Here chick! Here chick!" The fragrant aroma of coffee mingled with the sweeter odors of grass and flowers and warm, moist fields.

Donna crossed to the window and, kneeling beside it, rested her elbows on the sill. She lifted her head, drinking in the beauty of warring corn fields and the golden glow of the rising sun across the acres of growing grain. A man carrying two great buckets of frothy milk, followed by a dog, emerged from a barn. As he drew nearer, Donna recognized him. It was Bill in overalls, with bare, brawny arms and looking larger, more masculine than ever.

He disappeared into a summer house adjoining the kitchen. Donna rose and bathed with the cold water she found in a pink-sprigged pitcher set in a basin on the marble-topped commode. Then she dressed slowly. Donna was unbelievably hungry, yet loath to go below and confront in daylight the unsuspecting victims of her masquerade.

At last she descended the stairs. In the kitchen she found Mrs. Planter mixing batter for pancakes. The housekeeper greeted Donna with a brief nod and an audible sniff.

"You rise early," Donna said. "Reckon you want some breakfast," Mrs. Planter answered. "You'll have to help yourself. There's a heap to do, even if it is Sunday."

Donna poured coffee from an earthenware pot and sat down at the pine table, scrubbed shiny and white. Without speaking, Mrs. Planter set a plate of biscuits and a glass of jam before her.

"Is Grandfather up?" Donna asked.

"Winter or summer he's out of bed before five," Mrs. Planter told her, "but he sleeps a lot during the day. He's stubborn. A body can't do much with him. Mebbe you could for a spell, but not long." Shrewd yellow eyes tried to read Donna's intentions. "Bill said this mornin'." Mrs. Planter went on, "that you was thinkin' some of comin' back here to stay. You wouldn't be happy. After livin' the fast life you have a farm would be pretty lonesome."

"Fast life!" Donna exclaimed. "Why do you say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"You say that?"

"I haven't seen Grandfather this morning," Donna said.

MRS. PLANTER'S thin lips pursed. "I know something about circuses and show folks. Ain't it fast to come out before people without your clothes and to cavort around in shameful fashion? Leastwise it seems fast to me."

"It's a matter of opinion," Donna said, determined not to lose her temper. "I feel myself fully clothed when I'm in the arena, and my life is as full of routine and duty as yours. At times it's very tiresome."

"Yes?" doubtfully. "I says to Bill, 'Don't you bank on it. Madeline hated this place when she was a child. She'll hate it now.' That's what I says to him."

Bill's entrance just then prevented Donna from replying. He looked glowing with health and he greeted Donna with a cheery 'good morning'.

"Gosh, it's a treat for sore eyes to see a pretty girl in the kitchen. If I'd known you were up I'd have made you help with the milking. Did the prize rooster get you out of bed?"

"I'm used to early rising," Donna retorted with a laugh.

"How about some better cakes, Mrs. Planter? I'm starved."

Grumbling at the necessity of serving two breakfasts, the housekeeper put the grill on the stove and soon the big, airy kitchen was filled with the odor of wheat cakes and frying bacon. Bill insisted that Donna should join him in more coffee. When they had eaten their fill he took her arm and, leading her through the house, took her into the apple orchard.

"I haven't seen Grandfather this morning," Donna said, annoyed to be continued

HENRY TELLS OF EXPERIENCES AS STUDENT MAYOR

By BRADLEY MOLL

"I was disappointed," what an opening speech for a Mayor to make, I could not believe my ears, but then he went on to explain himself. I was confronting the 17 year old boy mayor of Dixon, "sure" he added. "How would you have felt if you had come down last year and found your office open when you wanted to open it yourself?" That was the key to the success of the Mayor Henry, he was himself, modest, and himself at all times, that was one of the reasons why he won the campaign for Mayor.

I asked him how the machinery of government was running and if he thought the political intrigue was getting down, and he said to me, "Really that is darn good experience, I mean it is more than just fun, it is doing something that is worth while and I wouldn't change it for a lot of other honors. I know he did not mean the honor of the thing was what he went out for, because I know "Hank" Henry and he is running the City of Dixon today because he wants the experience and not for the glory behind it.

"What are your gang doing now?" I asked, and he went into detail about the investigating of the things around Dixon, he was enthusiastic and he leaned over to the radio he had installed and he smiled and said "If you want to print why we have this well there is a ball game this afternoon, and our police force wants to know if Dillinger is heading this way or not."

"Yes sir," he added "Golf is a good game," and then I began to wonder what golf had to do with running the city government and he went on to explain that he had played a round of golf in the morning just to wake himself up before he went to work and with the feeling that he was in shape for the care of his office.

I asked him some more important and relevant questions and he had an answer for every one of them. "The park situation" he said, "is in the care of Mr. Withers, and he is going down to see Mr. Pitcher and find out just what he thinks of the situation. And the educational contact, well you heard my speech last night didn't you?" I remarked that I had, "Well," he said, "It is that speech all over again, and I still maintain that it is wonderful training for anyone that will take the time to go into it with half the trouble they would with the other things they do for half the good they get out of them."

I worked on him and he finally broke down and wrote a couple of paragraphs for me on his own impressions on the campaign and, here it is.

"This campaign has brought me one thing and that is enjoyment. I have been able to come in contact with students that I probably would never have been able to reach."

The meeting last night was great thrill to me in as much as it was my first time in speaking before the city council.

This morning I came into my office and it seemed kind of dead so we decided we needed a radio. We received one with the compliments of Mr. Kennedy. The excitement is increasing all the time."

Invention of Compass

The origin of the compass has been attributed consecutively to the Chinese, Arabs, Greeks and Egyptians, but it is not absolutely certain how far these accounts are correct. The invention of the compass was partly due to the discovery that a lodestone or a piece of iron which has been touched by a lodestone will direct itself to a point in a northern or southern position, depending on its position north or south of the equator.

Make 'Prevention' Byword of Child Health Week

Regular Examinations of Children Is Best Safeguard for Adult Well-Being, Says Olive Roberts Barton

(By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.)

"If you waken, call me early, call me early, mother dear, for I'm to be Queen of the May!"

We have always associated May first with children, and now more so than ever since the first week of the magic month each year is designated by national authority as "Child Health Week."

All over the land on the first of May there will be held special meetings of groups interested in the promotion of child health, because fortunately we do not, in the theory of the survival of the fittest, allowing the weak to die so that the stronger strain may be transmitted to posterity—but rather that all be made fit.

As Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur expressed it well at the White House Conference in 1930. "We cannot stop for a moment to argue with those who would dodge the responsibility of care for established human life," he said. "It is the supreme gift to us humans, and we must preserve it at all times. The wretched frame of a little body may have in it the brain and spirit of a Caesar, a Cicero, a Keats, a Washington, a Steinmetz, a Shelley, or a Stevenson. It is not for us to foretell the potentialities of a baby."

This is true. We are trying to canonize health, but not by elimination. We are trying to build a race for the future, and a heritage of good bodies, but not through the death of the unfit. By making each little body strong, by means of an educational campaign to run persistently on through the years the work will be done.

The secret of sound and robust adult health begins, in the cradle. It is only "by making each little body strong, by the means of an educational campaign to run persistently on through the years" that the rising generation can be emancipated from illness and disease, says Olive Roberts Barton, noted author of "Your Children."

Health for children consists of two things—prevention and cure.

As each year wings by we find the preventive theory accented more and more. It is amazing to hear some of the new scientists explain how they are unearthing facts to prove that much of the illness of adults is directly attributable to "uncured" diseases in children.

It is no longer thought that when a child has some high-powered germ disease, he gets over it when his convalescence is ended. Do not be alarmed—in most cases he does. But many vague and elusive troubles in adolescence and middle life are fast being pinned down to earlier illness, and the time is approaching when tests will be made to prove that a child carries no "Old Man of the Sea" with him, or in him, to devil his later years, even after he is pronounced well.

There is much sympathy for the sick child and it is a grand and glorious thing there is, because where there is sympathy there is help. But there should be cultivated still another kind of sympathy, or cooperation, for the well child so that every means may be employed to keep him well.

Someday, we shall have, I hope, and soon, regular examining stations where all children will have to go at least once a year for a thorough check-up; and if they are carrying in their blood streams or intestines any trace of "uncured illness" it will be traced down and eliminated from their bodies entirely.

So far this line of experimenting has not reached perfection, but the time is coming. Then shall we really be emancipated.

Daily Health Talk

THE EAR IN SWIMMING: I

The swimming season brings in its train a lot of ear trouble. Infections of the internal ear canals, the so-called Eustachian tubes, and of the middle ear, apparently result when infectious material which is carried by the waters in which the bathers swim, gains entrance into the ear mechanism.

To understand how this occurs and how it may be guarded against one must appreciate the essential structure and function of the hearing organs.

We hear by virtue of sound waves which travel from the vibrating source of sound, be it voice, gong, whistle, etc. and strike our eardrums. The eardrums are set into vibratory motion in sympathy with the sound waves.

Attached to the eardrums are minute bones called the ossicles, three in number. These ossicles "translate" the vibratory motion of the eardrum and convey it to a cockleshell-like structure known as the cochlea. Within this cochlea are the nerves of hearing. They are suspended in a fluid which is contained within the cockleshell-like structure. It is through the agency of these nerves that we hear, for hearing is essentially a function of the brain.

The eardrum is a membrane. A thin layer of skin stretched across the ear canal. This canal is actually a hollow, tube-like passage, one end of which is at the outer ear, while the other end opens into the throat.

In order that the eardrum might vibrate freely, it is necessary that the air pressure on both sides be equal. Persons passing through tunnels, for example, will feel the difference on their ear drums and be prompted to swallow. In the act of swallowing, the inner end of the ear canal is opened, thus permitting the air pressure on the inner portion of the tube to become the equal of the outside.

The proper function of the eardrum, upon which hearing depends to a substantial extent, therefore calls for periodic ventilation of the inner portion of the ear canal.

Tomorrow, The Ear in Swimming—II.

Trophies in Greece

In ancient Greece, a trophy was a memorial of victory erected on the spot where the enemy had turned in flight. Often one or two shields, and helmets of the routed enemy, placed upon the trunk of a tree, served as the sign and memorial of victory. After a sea-fight the trophy consisted of the beaks and stern-ornaments of captured vessels, set up on the nearest coast.
